

WHO AM I?

Everybody at the Theatre has a different job to do. Who do you think does each of the jobs below?

A. Over the next two days, I will listen to around sixty CDs so that I can choose a fragment of music. I will also listen to CDs with sound effects like door knocking, clocks ticking and rain

B. I once made a donkey's head for an actor to wear

C. This morning I have been on the phone to a drinks company asking them to donate their product for us to use in our production. Another member of my team is busy making an old fashioned newspaper for the actors to use

D. Over the next year, my Department and I will work with over 4,000 children, teenagers and adults

E. At the moment I am busy making a tiny chair to go in my model box

WORDSEARCH

Can you, with the help of these clues, find the eight words hidden above?

- Birds do it, Peter Pan does it and so does the Theatre's Technical Manager!
- Shakespeare was one – a special kind of writer (watch the spelling, it's not what you might think).
- The theatre name for a stage light (it sounds old fashioned!)
- A signal for an actor to come on stage, it's not a queue but a _ _ _ ?
- This department is an anagram of ACTING, with an S!
- Ages before it was a theatre, the Royal Exchange was used for buying and selling one of these: (a) parrots (b) cotton (c) houses (d) poems
- In this theatre job you might be asked to dress up in clothes you wouldn't usually wear, pretend to dislike your friends, and work until 11pm six nights a week.
- Initially, the Deputy Stage Manager.
